Southern California Fruit Exchanges

In 1886 Southern California produced 160,000 boxes of oranges; this year, 1894, it is estimated at 2,500,000 boxes; a gain of over 15 to 1 in 8 years.

The yield during these years has never failed, and as the results have been made known, it has been the means of bringing to these valleys people from every clime, of wealth, culture and business tact, who have built them homes of taste and elegance, and in the congenial sunlit clime of flowers and fruit they have watched, with no little interest, their growing orchards.

It has been an age of wonderful development of the unbounded resources of California Soil.

To-day the fruit growers bend their energies to a no less important task — the packing and marketing of their own fruits, and they are fully awake to the fact that to properly market their large increase, demands harmonious action, uniform methods, proper regulation, wide distribution and personal systematic work, and with this end in view they have established the Southern California Fruit Exchanges, with Headquarters at Riverside, and their aim to so conduct their business as to give everyone interested in the industry fair and honorable protection, and to this end they invite the hearty co-operation of every Fruit Jobber in these United States.

Is composed of a number of local Packing Associations and takes in the Entire Valley, scarcely a prominent grower being outside the Exchange.

It owns and controls about 3,000 car loads of as fine Oranges as can be grown on the Pacific Coast, and has every variety, so that cars of any description can be made up from its excellent fruit on short notice.

Large quantities of Lemons are also shipped from Riverside and the Exchange can safely promise to the Fruit Jobbers as fine a quality and as good keepers as the world affords.

Our Exchange will work with and through the Southern California Fruit Exchanges, whose Headquarters are located in our city, and our aim will be to so select and pack our fruits that they will merit the favors of the Fruit Jobbers, and we hope to so conduct our business as to encourage and protect our every mutual interest. Come and see us, correspond with us, and send us your orders.
